Teach your AI who you are

Make AI sound like your business, not everyone else's.

STEP 01

Ask your AI what it knows

TYPE THIS IN

"What do you know about me and my business?"

Your brand took years. AI knows nothing about it. Whatever it gets wrong here, it will get wrong in your posts.

STEP 02

Let the AI interview you

COPY THIS PROMPT

You are [title, like my brand strategist]. I need to discuss with you who I am personally and professionally, my goals for my company, and what I want to get out of using this tool. Interview me with a series of questions, one at a time.

Tip: Skip the typing. Tap the microphone in ChatGPT or Claude and answer out loud, like a real interview.

STEP 03

Want it a little more spicy?

ADD THIS TO THE END

Don't be a yes man. Think critically and outside the box about my industry and my business. Give me creative brand strategies. No vanilla ideas.

STEP 04

What your AI needs to know

Before or after the interview, feed it these. Check each one off as you add it.

- [ ] 01 Your website
  The lines you'd actually say. How you already talk.
- [ ] 02 Your brand kit
  Colors, fonts, voice notes. No brand kit? That's your first project.
- [ ] 03 Your mission statement
  Why you exist, in your own words.
- [ ] 04 How you talk to customers
  3 real emails, review replies or texts. Nobody polishes a text.
- [ ] 05 Your content pillars
  The 3 to 5 things you actually post about.
- [ ] 06 Customer words
  Phrases your customers use in reviews and on the phone.
- [ ] 07 Never say
  Words, claims and tones that aren't you.
- [ ] 08 Posts that worked
  Your best posts, and why you think they landed.

BEFORE YOU POST

Spot the bot

Search your draft for these. One can slide. Three and you sound like a robot.

delve · elevate · unlock · seamless · game-changer · journey · landscape · leverage · empower · dive in · testament · in today's fast-paced world

- Long dashes everywhere
- "It's not just X. It's Y."
- Lists of three: Fast. Friendly. Reliable.
- A post any business could have written

Keep your images real

When you leave the details out, AI makes them up.

IMAGES

What makes slop?

Glowing backgrounds, plastic people, warped hands, a plant growing out of someone's head. AI fills every gap you leave.

And when all else fails, it's always the prompt's fault.

REAL BEATS AI

Shoot it first

Real photos of your staff doing daily tasks beat AI every time. Shoot the real thing, then let AI touch it up.

KEEP IT REAL

Keep AI's hands off your face and your logo

01 Chatbots redraw. Editors edit. Sharpen your photos in Lightroom or Canva, not a chatbot.

02 Add this line to any image request with people: "Keep every face, body and expression exactly as it is. Only change the lighting and sharpness."

03 AI can't spell logos. Tell it to leave room for one, then add your real logo in Canva so you know it's the right one.

Your face and your logo are the two things AI should never make up.

TRY IT TONIGHT

Let AI plan your photos, not fake them

AFTER YOUR INTERVIEW, TYPE THIS IN

"Based on everything you know about me, give me 5 evergreen photos of my staff doing daily tasks that I should take this week."

YOUR GUARDRAIL

Hire a Slop Cop

A Claude skill, or saved instructions in any AI, that checks every post first. Set it up once.

01 Save it as a skill in Claude, or as the saved instructions in whatever AI you use. Name it Slop Cop.

02 Upload 5 slop examples named NOT-US-1, NOT-US-2 and so on. Glowing AI flyers, plastic people, robot posts.

03 Upload 5 real examples named US-1, US-2 and so on. Real photos of your team and place, plus 2 or 3 posts that did well.

04 Add your brand kit: colors, fonts, logo and the words you'd never say.

05 Paste the instructions on the right. Then before anything goes out, ask: "Would the Slop Cop let this through?"

PASTE THIS IN AS ITS INSTRUCTIONS

You are my Slop Cop. Your job is to stop AI slop before it reaches my customers.

I uploaded examples. Files named NOT-US are slop. Files named US are the real me. My brand kit is attached.

When I give you a post, caption, flyer or image:
1. Give it a verdict: PASS, FIX or BUSTED.
2. List every piece of slop you find. Be specific and point to where it is. Images: glowing or fantasy backgrounds, too many effects, picture-perfect people, extra or warped fingers and hands, melted or misspelled text, faces that don't match my real photos, colors that aren't my brand. Words: phrases like "in today's fast-paced world", "elevate", "unlock", "game-changer", too many emojis, hype I can't back up, anything that doesn't sound like my US posts.
3. Tell me exactly how to fix each one, in one line.
4. If it would only take a minute, rewrite the caption in my voice.

Be blunt. Don't be a yes man. If it looks like everybody else's post, it's slop.

AI drafts. You decide. You show up.

Read it out loud. If you wouldn't say it at the counter, don't post it. Then turn on the camera.
