The Conversion Stack

A lead magnet does not need to be long. It needs to make one promise, solve one painful problem, and point the reader to one next step.

1

Hook

Use the ad that already proved people will stop and click.

2

Offer

Give them a useful shortcut: the AI Stack, not a vague newsletter signup.

3

Capture

Collect name, email, phone, source, ad hook, and campaign fields.

4

Follow Up

Send the guide, text fast, notify sales, and invite the audit.

Why this works

It matches the ad.

The download feels like the natural next click from both the CEO Stack and funny funnel-leak ads.

It creates sales context.

The form fields tell you who they are, where they came from, and what campaign made them raise their hand.

It makes follow-up immediate.

A lead that gets a fast text and useful PDF is warmer than a landing page view that disappears.

Six Layers That Work Together

Ideas

AI assistant

Turn messy notes, FAQs, offers, and customer questions into campaign angles.

Content

AI writing + design

Draft posts, emails, scripts, ad copy, captions, and landing page blocks.

Video

Editing + captions

Cut raw footage into short clips with hooks, captions, and a clear CTA.

Capture

Landing page + forms

Route traffic to one focused page with required contact fields.

Nurture

CRM + automations

Text, email, tag, notify, and assign the lead within seconds.

Reporting

Pixel + UTMs

Separate attention metrics from real leads, booked calls, and sales conversations.

Stack rule

The magic is not the tools. The magic is the handoff: ad -> page -> CRM -> text/email -> human follow-up.

Copy/Paste Prompts

1

Turn attention into an offer

I have an ad getting attention but not enough leads. Build me one lead magnet offer, one landing page headline, three bullets, form fields, and a thank-you page CTA.

2

Write the follow-up sequence

Write a five-message follow-up sequence for someone who downloaded our AI Stack. Include one text, two emails, one soft audit invitation, and one final helpful reminder.

3

Diagnose a funnel leak

Act as a direct-response strategist. Review this ad hook and tell me why people click, what the next offer should be, and what question we should ask to qualify leads.

4

Create the sales handoff

Summarize this lead for a salesperson in five bullets: likely pain, source, offer requested, recommended opening line, and next best action.

The Follow-Up Flow
